For the prevention and cure of
BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS
is recommended
HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance; they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaister.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

From the Portland Gazette.

THE FARMER'S SONG FOR 1817.

Come neighbors, draw near,
'Tis the close of the year,
A year that's been fruitful and healthy;
In gratitude join,
To th' Being Divine,
Who makes us thus happy and wealthy.

We've plough'd and we've sow'd,
We've planted and hoed,
(The season uncommonly charming)
Our harvests are great,
Both th' former and late—
Sure this is the beauty of farming.

We've corn and we've wheat,
Cheese, butter and meat,
Enough for ourselves and some more,
And what we can spare,
'Monget th' needy we'll share,
Nor cease to remember the poor.

Let the idle complain,
And ramble in vain,
An Eden to find in the West;
They're grossly deceiv'd,
Their hearts sorely griev'd,
They'll sigh to return to the East.

We're fond of the toil
Of tilling the soil,
It makes us both active and strong,
It quickens the blood,
Gives rest to our food,
Thus labor our lives will prolong.

May our orchards revive,
Our flocks ever thrive,
Our fields be preserved from frost!
May the plough speed in peace,
Agriculture increase,
'Till MAINE of a BRIGHTON can boast.

Original anecdote of Dr. Johnson...from a work just published.

Merely to change the conversation, which had become too serious, I asked Pontius if he had ever met Dr. Johnson in Scotland? "Aye, gude troth have I, (replied he) and sin' we are upon the subject of the female sex, the Doctor was an instance that men may admire them, and yet lead a life o' comparative celibacy. He is frequently styled the literary bear, an' i' gude troth he was not sae affable and conciliating as he might have been; but even he lost a' his severity i' the company o' woman. I have heard him say, 'the mon, sir, that can withstond the effects of beauty, wha is na i' some measure softened by the tender solicitations of a sweet, amiable female, deserves to be transported tull a desert island, to herd among the brutes, his brothers.' Ane fine summer's evening, as we were enjoying the cool breezes, and aromatic exhalations frae a beautiful garden, a fine playful girl, frae the banks o' the Tweed, i' the zenith o' full youth, health and spirits, and who had, by her lively wit, produced a smile frae the otherwise rugged muscles o' the Doctor, came bounding o'er the turf where we sat, and exclaimed—'My dear Doctor, I am often surprised at your sober, saturnine mode of walking; here you go'—and she gave a correct representation o' his gait, which, by the by, was ane o' the clumsiest points about him—'why don't you run like me, and sport the toe elastic?' The laugh during this imitation was terribly against the Doctor, and had it been excited by any other means, would hae greatly irritated him. Instead o' which, wi' the utmost good humor he replied—'Why dearie, my elastic days are over; but I'll tell you what, dearie, I'll run a race for a pot of coffee.' The wager was taen; the Doctor laid his coat, hat an' wig upon the grass, an' away they went. But of a' the comic exhibitions that was ever seen, sure this was the most so. His round bald pate resembled a ripe pumpion, and his awkward exertions, much impeded by the size of his small cloths, which he was obliged to support wi' ane hand, were sae provokingly laughable to his fair opponent, that she screamed wi' glee, an' could na rin. Accordingly the palm o' victory was gi'en to the Doctor, who exultingly cried out, after he had recovered his wind, 'You see, dearie a mon may hae a heavy head, an' a light pair o' heels; but ye rin under great disadvantages, dearie.' 'Indeed,' said she, surprised, 'why how should I rin, Doctor?' 'I' the custume of your country, dearie, without shoes or stockings.' The laugh thus turned i' the Doctor's favour, and he was excellent company for the remainder o' the evening."

LIFE OF PATRICK HENRY.

[CONCLUDED]

As to our author's style, we have very few observations to make, and those of a general nature. The copious extracts we have presented to our readers will enable them to form, of this part of the work, an opinion for themselves. We have always considered that sentiment and thought constituted the lasting merit of any work, and that where the evidences of these were found, we should not endeavor with too critical an eye to spy out defects of style. Such lucubrations may serve for the instruction of young men, just entered upon the study of rhetoric—but they afford a very inadequate idea of the substantial merits of an author. Dr. Blair's criticism of two of the most accurate and elegant writers in the English language, will prove the truth of this observation; for no one, notwithstanding the many defects in their style he has pointed out, will be disposed to question the title of Addison or Swift to the character of fine writers. So the hypercritic might possibly, nay probably, discover in our author, by a minute search, some inaccuracies of expression, some peculiarities of language, or even some unfortunate Americanisms; but after all we should be left, as to any real knowledge of the work, where we were found.

The first enquiry we were induced to make in examining our author's style, was whether its general tenor was suited to the subject in hand—or in other words, whether he had struck upon the proper key-note adapted to a biography of such a man as Mr. Henry. And in this we think him very happy. There are to be found, perhaps, a few familiar expressions in the volume before us not exactly suited to the other parts of it, but they occur very rarely. In general, a certain elevation and dignity of style is preserved, which the narrative of such a life as Mr Henry's absolutely required. It will be recollected that his actions are intimately connected with many of the great events of the revolution. A relation of them, of course, assumes the importance, and rises to the dignity of history; and the language employed on the occasion must correspond with the subject. Different subjects, it is obvious, require to be treated of in different sorts of style, and that which seems exactly suited to embalm the memory of a great orator, statesman, or warrior, would be very ridiculous when applied to the biography of inferior men.

We have already noticed that in our author's narratives, and condensed statements of argument, he was extremely perspicuous. In this we think consists his peculiar excellence. He is in them sufficiently concise to avoid weakness, and yet so copious as to be free from obscurity. Nothing about them is redundant, and yet every thing is complete. His language is simple, correct and chaste, but still sufficiently figurative for all the purposes of ornament. The structure of his sentences here and there throughout his work, is in general so harmonious, that one is impressed with the opinion that he must have paid great attention to this subject; perhaps agreeing with Cicero in his idea of the plana ac numerosa oratio.

In the other parts of the work the style is more diffuse and florid. A freer use of figures of speech is admitted, which tend, however, on most occasions, to illustrate the idea of the author. To this rule there are some exceptions, we think, in the use of metaphors; which, although introduced much more sparingly in this work than in any of our author's former productions, yet occur rather too frequently for our taste; and are, in one or two places, we think, too far pursued.—The most striking examples of this nature we have given in our extracts; and we, therefore, consider it unnecessary to point them out particularly. They will occur at once to such of our readers who, like ourselves, are fonder of plain than of metaphorical language; and with those of an opposite description, our criticism would appear unfounded. These metaphors are never drawn from trite and familiar objects; but we think our author manifests too great a predilection for a particular class of them, to the exclusion of others equally apt for ornament or illustration, and affording a more pleasing variety.

Thus much we have said, least we should be suspected of writing a mere unqualified eulogium on this work, instead of giving a candid account of its merits. We venture to repeat the opinion, that it will stand the test of any fair criticism on this or the other side the Atlantic. It is the most valuable literary present to the public that we have seen for a long time; and we are clearly of opinion that no American library can be considered complete without it.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Washington, Wednesday, Dec. 10.

It would be difficult to mark out a day on which so many subjects of internal national importance were propounded in the shape of resolutions in Congress, and, at the same time, so few words were said in the way of modification, opposition, or exception, to them, as yesterday. In the House of Representatives no fewer than fifteen passed the House on subjects of great national interest, besides others of less consequence to the public. From the committee to which that part of the President's Message relating to the revenue was referred, a bill was reported by Mr. Lowndes to repeal the internal taxes, which was read twice, referred to a committe of the whole House, and ordered to be printed. After which, Mr. Johnson, of Kentucky, in a few words presented the sketch of a military establishment he proposed to introduce, and the main parts of which he now laid before the House in the following eight separate resolutions:

1. To make provision for the widows of soldiers who were killed in battle or died in the service.
2. To provide for disbanded military officers by donations of land.
3. To establish three additional military academies—one at Fort Dearborn in S. Carolina—a second at Newport in Kentucky, and the third at Harper's ferry. One third of the cadets admitted into these to be the sons of officers or soldiers who died in the service of the United States.
4. To organize a corps of Invalids.
5. To repeal so much of the act of Congress, of the 6th of July, 1812, as authorises additional pay and emoluments to brevet rank in our army.
6. That the military peace establishment shall consist of 8000 men, including the corps of invalids:—Provided that the corps of engineers, the general staff, and the ordnance department, shall be retained as at present established—Provided, also, that no part of the army shall be disbanded in consequence of said reduction, but the same shall be effected by permitting vacancies as they occur to remain.
7. To provide by law for an additional ration for each of the commissioned officers, and
8. —provides that the committee on military affairs shall be instructed to report rules embracing the objects of the foregoing resolutions.

These resolutions were, on motion of Mr. Johnson, referred to a committee of the whole House, made the order of the day for Monday next, and ordered to be printed.

On motion of Mr. Tucker, the following resolutions passed without opposition:

Resolved, That the President be requested to lay before the House an account of what roads have been made, what roads are in progress, and in what parts of the U. States, and how far they have been executed.

Resolved, That the secretary of war do lay before the house an account of the number of warrants issued under any laws, for military bounty lands—of the quantity of land included in those warrants—and of the quantity that will be necessary to satisfy the claims under those laws.

Resolved, That it be expedient to provide by law that all minors regularly enlisted in the army in the last war, who have served twelve months, and were honorably discharged, shall receive bounty in land or in money commuted for land.

Resolved, That the committee of commerce and manufactures do enquire into the expediency of providing by law for apprehending and securing foreign seamen deserting from foreign vessels in our ports, contrary to their engagements to serve on board such vessels.

Resolved, That the committee on public lands be instructed to enquire into the expediency of exempting from taxation the military bounty lands in the Illinois Territory.

Resolved, That the committee of ways and means do enquire into the expediency of repealing the law laying a duty on salt—granting a bounty on pickled fish exported, and allowances to certain vessels employed in the fisheries.

Resolved, That the committee on the judiciary do enquire and report whether any, and if any, what alterations are necessary in the judiciary.

The Eastern Mail, which, under a new arrangement made by order of the postmaster general, leaves New-York for the south two hours later than formerly, arrives, notwithstanding, at the city of Washington one hour sooner than the former arrangement; a clear gain of three hours on this very important route. [Wash. City Gaz.

We are authorised to say that the account which has appeared in several of our papers relating to the expense attending the survey by our commissioners for settling the N. W. boundaries, is grossly erroneous, as nothing like that sum has been expended; but on the contrary, that such a system of economy has been introduced as to secure the completion of them, and other expenses of the board, at a very moderate rate of expenditure. [Boston Gazette.

SEVERE WINTER.

The French engineer Chevaller predicts that the approaching winter will be unusually severe. In a letter published in a Paris paper of the 12th of October, he thus remarks: "Whether we adopt the period of the lunary nodes, of about nineteen years, whether we admit that the memorable winters correspond with one another in different ages, conforming to a period of an hundred or an hundred and one years, they all presage a rigorous winter: in effect, if regard is had to the period of 19 years, it will correspond with the winter of 1798, and if we go back to the period of 101 years, it will correspond with the winters of 1615 and 1716."

Washington, Dec. 9.

It will be seen, by reference to the proceedings of the House of Representatives, that a bill was yesterday reported to authorise the commutation of soldiers' bounty lands for money, at the rate of one dollar and forty cents per acre. As it is at least possible, if not probable, that this bill will pass, let the sober and discreet soldier of the late army hold up his patent. Instead of fifty dollars for his hundred and sixty acres, if the bill passes into a law, he will get fifty dollars a year for four successive years. This is a prize which will well repay the patience of waiting its award. [Nat. Int.

From the Augusta Herald, December 2.

The Georgia detachment of troops, to be commanded by gen. THOMAS GLASCOCK, were to assemble at Fort Hawkins on the first of this month. We understand, by a gentleman from that quarter, that they had already mostly assembled when he left that quarter; and a speedy movement may be expected from the following intelligence, which a friend politely handed us as this paper was going to press:

SKIRMISH WITH THE INDIANS.

We understand that general Gaines, having arrived on the banks of Flint River, sent over on the 17th a runner to demand a talk with the chief of the Indians on the opposite side, and received for answer, "that he did not want any talk from the general, that himself had no talk for him, that he should abide by the former talk, that the east side of Flint River was his from the powers above and the powers below, and he would defend it."

In consequence of this answer, the general, on the evening of the 28th, ordered over major Twiggs with a detachment of 200 or 250 men to surround the Indian town and take them prisoners if possible. The Indians, however, fired upon the party without doing any execution: the fire was returned, five Indians killed, and three or four prisoners made.

From the Augusta Chronicle, Nov. 26.

DREADFUL MORTALITY AT NATCHEZ.

We have been politely favored with the perusal of letters received by a gentleman of this city from Greenville, near Natchez, as late as the 15th and 23d of October. They state that the yellow fever still continued to rage in the latter place with dreadful mortality. Every person that could leave the city had done so; yet, notwithstanding, the averaged cases of mortality were from 8 to 10 each day. Nine out of ten, that are the subjects of this dreadful malady, never recover; they die in three or four days after taken. "To speak within the bounds of truth," says the letter of the latest date, "there cannot have died less than 253 or 275 during the last six weeks." Natchez, we understand, only contains a population of 1500 souls.

Extract of a letter to the editors of the Augusta Chronicle from a gentleman travelling in the up country.

"The crops of cotton, as far as I have seen, are very short. Some injured one fourth, others one half, and some again as much as two thirds. Higher up the country they are not so much injured;—but in no place, the Purchase excepted, will the planter make as much as the last crops.

"Crops of corn are good, and the abundant mast this fall will have a tendency to make corn and pork more plenty, and, consequently, cheaper than was at first expected."

Savannah, Dec. 1.

PROSPERITY

By a reference to our marine head it will be seen that four thousand four hundred and fifteen bales of cotton, and sixty-five hogsheads tobacco arrived at this place from Augusta on Saturday last, amounting to upwards of half a million of dollars!

SELECTIONS.

☞ Since our last we have received several European continental prints, from which the following articles have been gleaned. Though not particularly interesting, they serve to fill up the department of news, such as it is; learning the reader this pacific maxim, that "No news is good news."

Hague, October 7.

Negotiations carried on at the Hague between the king of the Netherlands and the United States of America, for the conclusion of the treaty of commerce, have been referred to their respective governments. His excellency William Eustis, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States of America, is about to set out from hence for France, and will return early in the spring. In the mean while Mr. Appleton will reside here in the quality of charge d'affairs.

Vienna, September 24.

Jerome Bonaparte is said to have purchased the estate of Engersfield, adjacent to his estate of Schohan. Madame Murat, it is said has purchased, for 900,000 florins, the lordship of Ort, between Vienna and Presburg, belonging to the banker, count Fries. The count has just returned from Prague, where he is reported to have concluded with Fouche, in conjunction with the banker of Prague, M. Von Lamel, the sale of his estate near Paris.

September 25.

The Grand Seignor has sent to their imperial majesties a complimentary letter, written with his own hand, and accompanied by ten superb horses for the emperor—four of them Arabian.

Milan, September 24.

A new convent of Jesuits has been formed in Piedmont. One of the principal noblemen of the court of Turin, the marquis Grimaila, has taken their habit. The government has taken the annual revenue of 24,000 francs from the University of Genoa to give into this religious order. Monks are also established at the Annunciade at Genoa and other towns. It is said that several great courts of Europe are about to address representations upon this subject to the court of Turin.

Petersburg, Sept. 9.

A deputation of the nobility of Courland has presented its resolution upon the abolition of the personal slavery of the peasants in that province, and has requested its confirmation by the emperor. We know that the nobility of the province of Esthenia were the first of the provinces of the empire which last year gave the example of this abolition.

September 17.

The emperor's ukase, respecting the army, declares the levy of recruits to be unnecessary this year, on account of the peace which, by the blessing of the Almighty, prevails in Europe.

Frankfort, Sept. 29.

It is said that the allied monarchs will meet some time in the course of the ensuing year, to adopt some resolution relative to the army of occupation in France. The place of meeting has been successively fixed at Frankfort and Aix la Chapelle; but it now appears that it will be at Manheim. After it is terminated the emperor of Russia will go to Warsaw, and from thence to Petersburgh.

Lisbon, September 13.

The criminal tribunal of this city held an extraordinary sitting on the 4th of this month, and cited before it the conspirators, to whom their several sentences were read. The general report is, that 18 of the accused have been acquitted, and that many others have been condemned. The latter, by virtue of the laws, have 5 days to appeal from this judgment.

Stutgard, Sept. 26.

A second royal rescript against the corps of writers have been issued, which clearly expresses his majesty's firm resolution to relieve his subjects, particularly those of the lower class. In a few days a third rescript is expected; according to which, all arbitrary taxing of accounts of partitions, of inheritances, &c. is to be wholly abolished, and fixed salaries appointed. Wirtemburg will then be indebted to the energy and the feeling heart of the king for its deliverance from a burden which has oppressed it for 300 years, and against which many former princes have contended, with perfect judgment, indeed, but yet in vain. In the accomplishment of this solemn pledged word on this subject, the king is very strongly aided by the indefatigable zeal of the minister Von Wangenheim, who already in the last reign made some proposals to the same effect, but was baffled by a powerful opposition.

Warsaw, Sept. 22.

Mr. Livingston, a member of the American embassy at Paris, has gone from this city to Pulawy.

Madrid, Sept. 20.

While in some parts of the peninsula (Spain and Portugal) complaints are made of the excessive abundance of the harvest, in the neighboring provinces the

...that the failure of the crops must produce nearly a famine. At the present moment all Castile are demanding liberty to export their surplus produce, as the cultivators complain that without this privilege, they will be unable to realize from their crops the amount of their labor. In this important and delicate situation of affairs, the king has directed the Council of Castile to report definitively on the subject.

The king has granted the grand decoration of the Royal American order of Isabella to lieut. gen. count de la Bisbal, Don Jos. P. Valiente, and brig. gen. Don Monteverde, for their signal services in contributing to the pacification of our American colonies.

Paris, October 12.

The Spanish consul at Rouen has notified all French persons, who propose to emigrate to South America to join the Spanish insurgents, that if they are taken with arms in their hands they will be treated as robbers.

DIED,

On Wednesday evening, the 24th November, Capt. GEORGE CROWNINSHIELD, aged 51, the late Navigator of the "Cleopatra's Barge," and eldest son of the late merchant of Salem of the same name. He was born in Salem on the 28th May, 1766. To a very robust constitution, he united a very active temper, and he was from his youth the first in every enterprise, the most fearless of danger, and never sparing of himself in any labor he undertook. The employments of the sea were among his first cares, and no man earlier or better knew what belonged to practical seamanship. He was in early youth at sea, and had command of vessels, first in the West Indies, and then in the East. He was a commander in the West India trade as early as in 1790, and in 1794 sailed for India in the Bellsarius, a well known ship of this port. With a band of brothers, all of whom possessed a full share of industry, with a variety of talent, he soon possessed the competence of wealth, and has ever since supported the character of generous charity, of a man ready in every danger, & of boundless resource at the moment, while he has experienced the most firm attachment to the naval reputation of his country.

His zeal for the navy displayed itself in the transportation, at his own expence, of the remains of Captain Lawrence and Lt. Ludlow, of the Chesapeake, from the British Dominions to Salem, that they might be interred in the land of their nativity, and be embalmed by the tears of their country. After the late war, he determined to visit Europe, to which his employments at sea had never led him.—He resolved to make the object of his voyage a display of our naval architecture, and of our ability to combine in the ship not only all the conveniencies, but all the luxuries of home—Without any other model than his own mind supplied, he produced the celebrated "Cleopatra's Barge," which has been admired in both hemispheres, and accomplished in her all he wished, and after a visit to Rome, he returned to the place of his nativity.—Upon his return his iron constitution seemed to have lost its strength, and he had such affections of the breast as obliged him to put himself under the care of his physician. He still retained all his cheerfulness, and apparently his agility, but his complaints returned oftener than before. On the day he died, he enjoyed himself at every meal, and received his friends at his table in the Barge, & had his usual frugal supper in her. Just before he expired, he complained not of pain but of fainting, and in an instant fell, without one sign of remaining life. Few men were more generous, and very few had a greater share of confidence.—No man knew the practice of his profession better, and no one who knew him denied that he had great virtues. Every citizen recollects him with affection.

It is a singular circumstance that Captain G. Crowninshield expired on the same evening and at the same hour with Mr. Samuel Curwen Ward, merchant of Salem, who was his companion in the voyage in the Cleopatra. He was the senior brother also of Capt. R. Crowninshield, who lost his factory, in his absence, on the morning of the preceding day at Danvers. [Salem Register.

CHARLES COUNTY COURT,
August Term, 1817.

ON application to Charles County Court by petition in writing of James G. Bateman of Charles County, for the benefit of the act of assembly for the relief of sundry insolvent debtors, passed at November session 1805, and the several supplements thereto, on the terms mentioned therein, a schedule of his property and a list of his creditors on oath, so far as he can ascertain them, being annexed to his petition, and the court being satisfied by competent testimony that the said James G. Bateman has resided two years immediately preceding the time of his application, in the state of Maryland, and being also satisfied that the said James G. Bateman is in actual confinement for debt, and the said James G. Bateman having entered into bond with sufficient security for his personal appearance in Charles County Court, to answer such allegations as his creditors may make against him: It is therefore ordered and adjudged that the said James G. Bateman be discharged from imprisonment, and that by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some one of the newspapers edited in the district of Columbia, once a week for two months successively, before the third Monday of March next, he give notice to his creditors to appear before the said court, at Charlestown in said county, on the said third Monday of March next, for the purpose of recommending a trustee for their benefit, and to shew cause why the said James G. Bateman should not have the benefit of the several insolvent laws as prayed. Given under my hand this 9th day of December, 1817.

THEATRE.

THE public are respectfully informed that the Theatre, having undergone considerable alterations and improvements, will open, for the season, on THURSDAY EVENING, Dec 11.

The lower part of the house which has heretofore been considered inconvenient, has been most particularly attended to; it is now partitioned off into eight boxes, and will hereafter be under the same rules as in all regular Theatres, viz. The Box Office will be open every day, where will remain a plan of the Boxes, which may be taken by a whole box, bench or individual sitting, provided the Tickets are taken at the same time. The public will please to observe that an individual sitting cannot be taken on the front benches, nor can those seats be let, except with the number of tickets making the complement for the whole bench.

The Pit for the future will be under the same regulations as the Boxes; and the Gallery, which has for several years been closed, will now be opened for the reception of people of color exclusively.

It is the wish of the Managers to establish the Theatre on a solid basis; to effect which, Rules and Regulations are essentially necessary; in their choice of them they have only the public feeling at heart, and they have confidence that in presenting to the citizens of Alexandria a regular and well governed Theatre, they will be crowned with that liberality and support which has been bestowed on anterior exertions.

It is most particularly requested that gentlemen will not smoke in the house; the practice within the walls of a Theatre is not only offensive, but dangerous.

It having been the practice of a number of ill disposed boys, who nightly infest the doors of the Theatre, not only to exercise unlawful means of admission, but, failing in their object, to make a riotous and outrageous noise, much to the discomfiture of the audience and interruption of the performance: the Managers give this timely notice to inform them, that officers will be stationed in future to observe them, who will, by their orders, take into custody the first who shall be found committing either of the above misdemeanors, and that they shall be dealt with according to law.

On the above evening will be presented Tubin's celebrated Comedy, in five acts, called

IF early application is made, I will dispose of 400 acres of the CEDAR GROVE tract of land. There is surplus timber and fire wood enough on the part I purpose selling to pay, with judicious management, more than half the purchase money, at the price I ask. The situation is healthy, and the land fertile. Contiguity to market is also among its advantages; it being within less than a mile of Mr. Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price may be had for grain. Persons wishing to purchase will apply to the subscriber, residing at Cedar Grove, ten miles below Alexandria, and one below Janney's mill.

Land for Sale.

THE Subscriber offers for sale, about 2000 acres of land in Fairfax county, not more than from seven to nine miles from Alexandria. The property is well watered, has a sufficiency of wood, and (judging from the condition of small and well cultivated farms that adjoin it,) it is highly susceptible of improvement.—It is at present divided into tenements, of from one to two hundred acres, each provided with a dwelling house, out houses, a garden and orchard; and might, of course, be laid off into four or five very compact farms The principal object of the subscriber, being the introduction of a good system of husbandry into his neighbourhood, he will sell on very moderate terms, give a long credit on the whole amount of the purchase money, and require no other interest, than what the present rent of the land pays, being about 3 per cent. on its estimated value

The highly improved state of this farm, its contiguity to market, salubrity of air, agreeable and genteel society, render it one of the most desirable pieces of property ever offered for sale in this part of the country. There is on this farm every convenience: an excellent barn, good stables, an orchard of peach and apple trees, not equalled by any in its vicinity, and as well if not better watered than any of the neighboring farms. RAN AWAY, on Saturday evening, the 11th inst. my mulatto man, named NED, commonly called NED M'RAE alias SHRIMP. He is about 23 or 24 years of age, 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, and was raised in Manchester. Ned is well made, high forehead and large flat nose: had on when he went away a grey coat and pantaloons, but as he was well provided with cloathing of various kinds, it is probable he may have changed his dress. It is believed he went off with his wife, who it appears left Richmond at the same time; she is very black, and, I believe, somewhat pitted with the small pox, talks a great deal, of short stature, and rather thick made. Ned is very artful, and may probably attempt to pass for a free man; he has a down look when spoken to. John Jackson & Co.

James Kennedy & Son,

BOOKSELLERS,

KING-STREET, ALEXANDRIA,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from Lee's Medicine Store, No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face blotted and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of person can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders	Violent cramps in the stomach and back
Consumptions	Indigestion
Lowness of spirits	Melancholy
Loss of appetite	Gout in the stomach
Impurity of b'ood	Pains in the limbs
Hysteric'l affection	Relaxations, etc.
Inward weaknesses and debility

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaister.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.
